“...National interests are served by the Selective Service System. Registration provides a hedge against a catastrophe we do not yet anticipate. The SSS is a means to sustain this legacy by reminding our youth that public service is a valid part of American Citizenship.”

INTRODUCTION

The Selective Service System (SSS) values your influence as a Tribal Leader in your community. Our Agency is honored to share with you the opportunities provided to young men when registering with the Selective Service System.

Selective Service has been a distinguished part of the history of the United States for over a century, spanning many eras of conflict and also of peace. Our small but extraordinary mission is to provide personnel during a time of national crisis. In short, the Selective Service System is our country's best insurance policy. Federal law requires all men ages 18-25 who are U.S. citizens and those who have dual citizenship living abroad to register within 30 days of their eighteenth birthday.

Registration with Selective Service ensures that the U.S. government is equipped with the task force needed in the event of a national emergency. The Agency's job is to register young men, and to maintain a system that, when authorized by the President and Congress:

- (1) Rapidly provides personnel in a fair and equitable manner
- (2) Manages an alternative service program for conscientious objectors

In addition, registration with Selective Service offers young men many opportunities, including access to student loans, scholarships, and grants; millions of Federal jobs; and, in some cases, a streamlined process toward U.S. citizenship. Once a man turns 26, he may no longer register with Selective Service, and may become ineligible for such benefits.

This Tribal Leaders toolkit is a resource that will provide you with information to raise awareness of, and compliance with, the registration requirement. The support that you provide in helping your community learn about this essential civic duty is invaluable to the future of our youth.

Thank you for providing this vital information to your community.

HOW TO REGISTER

HOW TO REGISTER

The quickest and easiest way for you to register is online www.sss.gov/register.

- If you do not have a Social Security number, you can register at any U.S. Post Office and request a Selective Service Registration Form 1.
- If you received a registration-reminder letter, you may register via the form received .
- If you received a registration card in the mail, you are eligible to register over the phone with the PIN that was provided to you on the card.
- You may also register at any high school, with assistance from a guidance counselor or teacher.
- You may register at any U.S. Embassy or consular office.
- There are opportunities for you to register when you are applying for Federal job-training programs, a driver's license, or state ID. (Varies with specific state legislation).

Your registration process is not complete until you receive an instant confirmation online, or a printed acknowledgment in the mail. A registration-acknowledgment card will be mailed four to six weeks after registration and will include your Selective Service number. This is an important document, and you should retain it.

Once you have registered, your only responsibility is to notify Selective Service within 10 days of any changes to your address or other information in your registration record. After January 1 of the year in which you will reach age 26, you are no longer required to notify Selective Service of changes to your registration record.

Learn more about registration through legislation by States, Territories, and the District of Columbia, at www.sss.gov/register/state-commonwealth-legislation/.

BENEFITS OF REGISTRATION

BENEFITS OF REGISTRATION

A young man must register with Selective Service to have access to the benefits listed here.

Student Aid

The law provides that only those men who have registered with Selective Service are eligible to receive some types of student financial aid.

Most states have enacted legislation that requires young men to register to be eligible for State education funds. Some States also require registration for a young man to receive in-state tuition rates and entry into State colleges or universities.

Federal Job Training Programs

A man participating in training and employment programs under the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA), must be registered with Selective Service to receive a job or training benefits.

The WIOA helps strengthen and improve the United States' public workforce system. It helps youth and those with significant barriers to employment, by providing high-quality jobs and careers. It also helps employers hire and retain skilled workers.

Federal Employment

Agencies requiring registration as a condition of employment eligibility include all Departments and Agencies of the Federal Government's executive branch, including the Central Intelligence Agency, the National Park Service, and the United States Postal Service. Learn more about Federal job opportunities at www.usajobs.gov.

Many States, local-government agencies, police departments, and State bar examiners require applicants to register to be eligible for employment or state education funds. Such conditions are established by local law and policy and may vary from state to state.

Citizenship

Male immigrants must be registered with Selective Service to qualify for U.S. citizenship if they first arrived in the United States before turning 26 years old. Failure to register can delay a man's citizenship process by up to 5 years.

RAISING REGISTRATION AWARENESS

OUTREACH LETTER

Our Agency has comprised an example letter that can be utilized as a tool to be distributed among your tribal council. This letter will help the Selective Service System mission as we continue to communicate the importance of registering men in a fair and equitable manner.

[Organization/Contact Name],

Federal law requires all men ages 18-25 who are U.S. citizens and those who have dual citizenship living abroad to register with Selective Service within 30 days of their eighteenth birthday. Most young men register when obtaining a driver's license or applying for certain student loans when enrolling in college. Others register directly on our website, www.sss.gov.

Since 1980, men registered with the Selective Service have benefited from opportunities, including access to many student loans, grants, and scholarships, millions of jobs with the federal government, free job training under the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act, and a streamlined process for citizenship. It is our mission to continuously register men in a fair and equitable manner. Selective Service is honored by the dedicated and enthusiastic members that make up our Local Boards and State Directors. If a military draft becomes necessary, more than 2,000 local and appeal boards comprised of approximately 11,000 volunteer civilian board members nationwide would be activated for service.

Please consider becoming a pillar of knowledge by volunteering with the Selective Service to educate our youth on the opportunities provided by registering. For more information, please contact TribalGovernmentConsultation@sss.gov if you'd like the Agency to mail registration awareness materials; if you or any other members of your Nation are interested in serving on a board; if you'd like to discuss opportunities to work together; or for any other purposes.

We look forward to working with you.

[Your Name]

“The Congress further declares that in a free society the obligations and privileges of serving in the Armed Forces and the Reserve Components thereof should be shared generally, in accordance with a system of selection which is fair and just, and which is consistent with the main tenants of an effective national economy.”

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

WHAT IS SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION?

Registration is a list of names of men maintained by the Selective Service from which to draw in case of a national emergency requiring rapid expansion of our Armed Forces. By registering all young men, Selective Service ensures that a future draft would be fair and equitable. Registering with Selective Service does not mean you are joining the military.

WHY IS SELECTIVE SERVICE NEEDED?

America's leaders agree that even with the success of the United States' current all-volunteer military force, registration with Selective Service must continue as a key component of our national-security strategy. As President Bill Clinton informed Congress in 1994, "Maintaining the Selective Service System and draft registration provides a hedge against unforeseen threats and a relatively low-cost 'insurance policy' against our underestimating the maximum level of threat we expect our Armed Forces to face."

CAN MEN UNDER THE AGE OF 18 REGISTER?

Yes. Selective Service accepts early registrations of men as young as 17 years and 3 months of age. If an applicant registers early, Selective Service will hold his information until 30 days before his 18th birthday. At that time, Selective Service will process his registration, and the registrant will receive a registration-acknowledgment card in the mail, confirming his Selective Service registration.

WHY ARE MEN WHO MAY NOT BE FIT FOR SERVICE OR WHO ARE MORALLY OPPOSED REQUIRED TO REGISTER?

Selective Service is responsible for availability, while the Department of Defense is responsible for acceptability, in the event of a future draft. If a man is called on to serve, he will then be able to submit a claim for reclassification or exemption. A parent or guardian may submit a claim on his behalf if he is unable to do so.

“...National interests are served by the Selective Service System. Registration provides a hedge against a catastrophe we do not yet anticipate. The SSS is a means to sustain this legacy by reminding our youth that public service is a valid part of American Citizenship.”

[Chuck Hagel, Secretary of Defense, 2013]

DOES SELECTIVE SERVICE COLLECT OR SHARE IMMIGRATION STATUS’?

Selective Service does not now, nor has it in the past, collected or shared any information that would indicate a man’s immigration status, either documented or undocumented. Selective Service has no authority to collect such information.

HOW CAN A PERSON CHECK IF THEY ARE REGISTERED?

If a man is unsure of his registration status, he should go to www.sss.gov/verify. He will be prompted to enter his last name, Social Security number, and date of birth, in the online form. If he is registered, he will find his registration status with Selective Service at this link, and will also see another link where he can immediately obtain a copy of his registration-acknowledgment letter from Selective Service. If he is not successful in verifying his registration status online, he can call for assistance at 1-847-688-6888.

WHY ARE WOMEN NOT REQUIRED TO REGISTER?

As currently written, Federal law requires that “male persons” aged 18 to 25 register with the Selective Service. It would require an Act of Congress or a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court to change this law.

IS ANYTHING ELSE REQUIRED AFTER A MAN REGISTERS?

After a man registers, and until he turns 26 years old, he is required to notify the Selective Service within 10 days of an address change. If a man changes his name, he must also notify the Selective Service and provide documentation to support this change.

HISTORICAL TIMELINE

Prior to Civil War

Each state maintained its own militia, with limited Federal direction guidance or regulation. All able bodied men of military age (18-45) would enroll with very lax requirements. Citizen's willingness to serve was given priority over liability.

Prior to 1861

1861-1865

Civil War

The War department was put in charge of executing the draft. All military groups were instructed to visit homes in search of eligible males. The Enrollment Act of 1863 involuntarily called men to service. Quotas were established by districts, but rarely were filled. At this time there was no organized selection process put into place. Willingness to serve was given priority over liability.

World War I

The first national conscription system comes into being in 1917. Congress passes a draft law based on "the liability to military service of all male citizens." The law authorized a draft of men between the ages of 21 and 31. A new classification system gave the newly created local boards a set of guidelines to determine which men should be drafted. Total # inducted: 2,810,296.

1914-1918

1939-1945

World War II

On September 16, 1940, the Selective Service Training and Service Act (the nation's first peacetime draft law) was signed. By the end of the war, over 45 million men between the ages of 18 and 64 had been registered. 15 million of the men who served in the U.S. Armed Forces during WWII, approximately 66% were inducted. Total # inducted: 10,110,104.

Cold War

The Selective Service Training and Service Act expired in 1947. Only a year later, at President Truman's request, new peacetime draft legislation was passed to supplement voluntary recruiting.

1947-1949

1950-1953

Korean War

President Truman authorizes the Armed Forces to use the draft if necessary during the Korean crisis. The Selective Service provided 27% of the men in uniform during the Korean War. As a result of the Physicians and Dentists Draft Act, 7,054 physicians and 3,799 dentists are delivered by Selective Service to the Armed Forces. Less than 50 of them were actually inducted. Total # inducted: 1,529,539.

Vietnam War

In the 1950s and early 1960s, the U.S. presence in Vietnam expanded with increasing intensity. The Selective Service encountered protest about unfair deferments fueled by an anti-war sentiment. The Selective Service provided 20% of the men in uniform during the Vietnam War. Total # inducted: 1,857,304 The last man inducted entered the Army on June 30, 1973.

1950-1975

1976-1980

Deep Standby

Registration was suspended in early 1975 and the Selective Service System entered into a "deep standby" position.

Out of Deep Standby

In late 1979, a series of revival efforts began in an effort to upgrade the Selective Service System's capability for rapid mobilization in an emergency. In the summer of 1980 the registration requirement was resumed.

1980-Present

INTERESTED IN VOLUNTEERING?

Tribal Leaders play an important community role closely connected with United States' defense. In the event of a draft, approximately 2,000 Selective Service Local Boards would decide which registrants in their respective communities receive deferments, postponements, and/or exemptions based upon established criteria.
